Dear Carl:

Esther and I are taking a trip soon that will, for the first time, bring us within hailing distance of Carbondale. We thought we should like to visit you briefly if it would not inconvenience you. Our plans are not absolutely certain, but we would probably be driving by on the 25th, 26th or 27th of this month. Actually we are on our way to Chamblee (Atlanta), Ga., but thought it would do no harm to go via New Orleans.

As we may be coming by on a Sunday, I thought it especially pertinent to warn you, especially if there are any difficulties reaching you by phone. Please give us any directions, if any are necessary, (though I suppose at least one of you will certainly be in the lab).

A research fellow from England, C.C.Spicer, is driving with us; I think you'd enjoy meeting him too. If exams or anything else would raise any difficulty about seeing you, please let us know.

With best regards to Gerry, and from Esther,

Sincerely,

Joshua Lederberg
